

When is the best time for Kevin to perform at your Wedding?

You have found your perfect partner and now you have discovered the ideal entertainer for your wedding or civil ceremony, who will help you make your special day even more memorable for yourselves and your guests.

2. Kevin can also entertain at the tables during your wedding breakfast, performing a small close up magic show, between courses, moving from table to table.

3. There is often an awkward time between the speeches and the first dance, when tables are being cleared and the evening guests are arriving. This is another time where Kevin can perform close up magic to your friends and family.

About Kevin

As a popular, charismatic and professional Wedding Magician, Kevin can often be found entertaining the Bride, Groom and their guests at one of the more prestigious venues in London or the Home counties, enthraling guests with his own unique style of magic.

He is equally at home whether performing at a wedding or civil ceremony in the lavish splendour of a stately home or at a more intimate reception in the heart of the English countryside. Kevin, with over 20 year's experience, is an Associate of the Inner Magic Circle, and was awarded the celebrated 'Silver Star' for his achievements, the highest accolade for performance the world famous Magic Circle bestows.

With his years of experience, Kevin is the ideal entertainer to entrust entertaining your family and friends, allowing you to relax and relish the day, knowing that you and your guests will be enjoying the finest of magical entertainment.

Mix and Mingle

Kevin can mix and mingle among your wedding guests, performing amazing sleight of hand for individuals or small groups of guests, which is perfectly suited for your drinks reception. It is also a wonderful ice breaker, where Kevin's magic gives your guests, who may have never met, a common talking point generating a relaxed and enjoyable atmosphere. This is the ideal entertainment for your guests whilst you have those all important official photos taken, or in the time between the speeches and the first dance, whilst the room is being reset for your evening function and your additional guests are arriving.

You will hear the laughter and applause echo round the room, as Kevin both amuses and amazes your guests on your behalf, delighting them when the formalities of the day mean that you cannot be with them all the time.

Close Up Magic at the Table

Kevin can entertain your guests between courses of your wedding breakfast, with his unbelievable skill and dexterity as large coins pass through glass into a sealed bottle, and even pass straight through your guests heads, selected signed cards vanish, only to immediately reappear in the most impossible places, money is produced from flaming paper, the minds of your guests are read and the most amazing predictions are found to be true. This is probably the best time for the top table to enjoy Kevin's magic.

Personalised Magic for you and your Guests

Kevin will personalise his magic for the Bride, Groom and Bridesmaids, giving you lasting mementos of your special day, many of which have been kept by happy couples with their most treasured possessions. Kevin can also surprise selected guests, who may have their own celebration on the day, travelled from afar, or who you would specifically like to bewilder or thank in the most spectacular manner.
